Language Arts

In reading we are making connections as we read. Today the children practiced making text to self, text to text, or text to world connections. Try this at home with a story! In writing, we are enjoying some mentor texts that offer a variety of writing styles. This week we added important reminders to our writer's notebooks and added a section of 50 things we love! Thank you for helping your child decorate their writer's notebook! They turned out great!

Social Studies

This week we began learning about important places in the United States. We talked about how to measure on a map! We discussed where we would want to travel in the United States!

Math

This week we continued to work on rounding numbers to the nearest tens or hundreds place. We also worked on finding the difference or a sum of a set of numbers and then rounded to check if our answer was reasonable. Today we had a "snowball fight" to help us with mental addition and subtraction. We will continue to work on these skills next week. We will be having our unit 2 chapter test on Friday 10/11. The children will receive a practice test on Monday. This will come home every night in their math folder. Please look over the practice test with your child. Thank you for your support.
