Farewell, Class of 2019

Principal Staub Bids Senior Class Farewell

Dear Class of 2019,

Although we've only known each other for one year, it has been an honor to serve as your Principal. The Class of 2019 has certainly left its mark on Neshaminy High School. You have contributed to the tradition of excellence in academics, athletics, music and the arts and raised the bar for all future classes. You have been given the gift of growing up in the best school community around, and now it's time to use those lessons to accomplish your own goals and choose your own path.

Regardless of whether you're going to college, joining the military, entering the workforce or taking some time to find yourself, please know you have all the tools to be successful in life.

Members of the class of 2019 will undoubtedly make the world a better place. Some will go on to careers in medicine, law and government, while others will, in time, raise a family. These paths will be carried out with the same caring and empathetic attitude that I have observed in the halls of Neshaminy High School this year.

On a personal note, I want to thank you for introducing me to the proud traditions that Neshaminy High School has to offer. Incredible and inspiring student leadership has been on display throughout the year. Gym Night and Homecoming are just two of the highlights that stood out to me this year. I hope you can reflect on your experiences over the last four years with Neshaminy Pride!

Congratulations,
Ryan P. Staub
Principal

Playwickian Advisor Bids Senior Editors Farewell

To the class of 2019,

As I was thinking what to write to you as you graduate, two things came to mind: congratulations...and thank you! The congratulations is self-evident; but the thank you is what I feel needed and deserved.

I say thank you because the things I have observed and learned from the class of 2019 make my choice of being a teacher that much more rewarding. Too often I hear people say that high school students don't care about anything. To this, I always tell people about the staff at our very own Playwickian. Aside from the stance they took and defended over a term they deemed as inappropriate, I see their energy and fervor when it comes to the stories they cover. I see their resolve and determination when they present how they plan to cover those stories. I hear them as they defend their coverage using their research and logic. I know that, as much as they can try to annoy me, they truly do care and our future is in safe and capable hands.

This thank you is not just to the students of the Playwickian. Too often we measure a student's success by their grades. But what we are missing is the compassionate and caring young adults that are graduating today. The way they rally behind their classmates when tragedy hits, or celebrate personal victories, and then buckle down and take care of what needs to be done is inspiring and something for which we should all be thankful.

So thank you, Class of 2019. I am looking forward to hearing about the mark each of you will undoubtedly make on the world.

Class of 2019,

These past four years have been quite the adventure. I learned that the sciences aren't my strong suit and that the English department would be my home for those four years. I am so grateful for the change from Freshman year to my Senior year. Thank God I mellowed out. From homecoming and gym night to prom and now graduation, these events hold a special place in my heart. Neshaminy definitely helped me discover part of who I am.

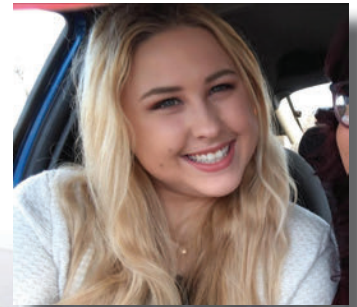

Some of my fondest memories revolve around the Junior Class Trip, (my roommates know what I'm talking about,) and my Sophomore and Junior year English class thanks to Sam Yeagle. I would never have made it through 45 minutes of those classes everyday if it wasn't for her.

As part of my four years on this paper, I have made some of the greatest friends: Nina Taranenko, Andy Nguyen, Brynn Simon, Maggie Aldrich, and Sophie Laurence. Thank you to Mrs. Huber for helping me find my voice as a writer and Mr. Sean Daly for putting up with our wild antics these past two years as advisor. These people have made being on this paper so enjoyable and worth all the stress and drama that came along with it. Because of this paper I discovered who I was and it helped me realize what I want in life career wise. I can't wait to continue my love for journalism during my time at the University of Scranton and well after that.

Thank you to everyone who has impacted my life in some way, shape, or form. I am not the same person I was freshman year and I contribute that growth in myself to you all. I would not change these past four years no matter how stressful and hard they sometimes could be.

I wish all the seniors the best of luck wherever they go after Neshaminy. It has been a privilege to be a member of this paper and I hope future students and potential editors love it as much as I did. It was an honor to be your Editor in Chief.

Goodbye Neshaminy,

Madison Pickul
Editor-in-Chief
University of Scranton

Class of 2019,

After recently finishing East of Eden by Steinbeck, I came across an idea that I believe sums up my experience with the Playwickian: Timshel. This is the concept that we carve our own destiny, whether we follow the good or bad, which leads up to discovering our place in this unknown future. While I did come across many negative barriers throughout high school, one thing that has always remained constant is my love for writing.

Taking on the role as Editor in Chief seemed like an intimidating idea as an underclassman, but by taking this given opportunity I found this part of my life that has not only shaped my future, but has introduced me to so many amazing people along the way.

I'd like to thank Madison, Andy, Brynn, Sophie, Brianna, Regina, Gabi, Daly, and so many others for helping me form another family outside of the crazy depths of high school. Without committing to the opportunity to walk into G202, I wouldn't have discovered the passion I carry for uncovering the hidden information of the school and the world and my obligation as a future journalist to use the power of my writing to release it in larger forms.

Although leaving a room that has blessed me with so much experience is like leaving a piece of my life behind, and leaving this staff is like leaving a dysfunctional family, I feel content knowing I have the power to carry out this new part of me into the world and my future of the unknown.

Thank you Playwickian, for showing me I have what it takes to amount to anything with effort and tenacity, and as for any underclassman who are presented with the blessing of choosing a path that has the potential to challenge another part of themselves, Timshel.

Class of 2019,

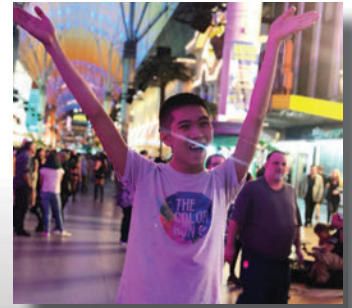

The past four years have been a wild ride. Freshman year, I walked into the building automatically thinking that everyone hated me. I put on my best, “please do not talk to me, blink near me, nor breathe in the same room as me,” face, hoping I wouldn’t have to open up to anybody. My main goal was to get through high school so I could get back to the West Coast as soon as possible.

Freshman and sophomore year have barely any space in my mind because the person I was back then is definitely not the person I am today. Sure, I’m still very annoying and definitely a little awkward, partly because I’m what my friends like to call a “twig bug”, but something I learned in those two years is that there’s always room for growth. Don’t sell yourself short of something simply because people will laugh in your face about the idea of it. If you want to go across the country for college, try your hardest because if you don’t, you’re only hurting yourself. Heck, if you wanna drop out and become the next Martha Stewart, selling bowls and kitchenware to middle-aged moms around the world, by all means go for it.

Junior and Senior year were both just out there. These were the years I realized academics aren’t the only aspect of high school. My Junior year, I met some of my best friends. They remind me everyday to be my best self and to, quite literally, destroy anyone who doesn’t want what’s best for me. To my friends — Regina Thomas, Madison Pickul, Maggie Aldrich, Alyssa Porter, Sophie Laurence, and so many more — thank you so much for the memories I will carry throughout my life. If it weren’t for you guys, I wouldn’t be the most annoying person to ever grace Neshaminy with my presence. To the rest of Neshaminy, it was fun I guess. Hope you don’t miss me too much.

Carry on,
Andy Nguyen

Managing Editor

Class of 2019,

The past year I have spent as an Editor for the Playwickian has been, in a word, inspiring. I entered newspaper as a student of creative writing who joined the paper as a way of gaining experience of how news actually works. I expected only to write the occasional article and help out once in a while. I ended the year as the Campus Life Editor of this distinguished paper. I owe this entirely to Madison Pickul, Maggie Aldrich, Andy Nguyen, Sophie Laurence, and of course Mr. Daly. This diverse group encouraged me to go beyond the normal story that everyone expected to hear. We’ve spent days holed up in G202 having meltdowns about the many AP’s we all took, eating a lot of tots, making mistakes, fixing them; but most importantly, every day, we had each other’s backs. Together, we pushed the boundaries of news, not particularly caring what our peers thought about the truth we dished out monthly. We brought up sore subjects and handed papers out with pride, because someone had to say it. Whatever backlash we received, we received together as a family.

This paper has pushed me to go out of my comfort zone and seek the truth, no matter how many administrators stand in your way. I fondly remember (and I’m sure anyone who had classes with me can remember as well) the three day no sleep experiment I wrote about. Sadly after two days I physically had to stop (I’m still a little sore about that) and I wrote my article. Shortly after I had submitted my article, I received word via Mags that I was not allowed to do said sleep experiment for an article topic. We had a good laugh about that and ran the article anyway. Am I saying begging for forgiveness is better than asking for permission, perhaps. Am I saying that staying true to what you believe in and know will be worth it in the long run is worth skirting around procedure for, absolutely.

My peers, as you move into the future, remember to question everything you know, and everything you don’t. Be smart, be brave, and don’t give in without a fight.

Farewell, Class of 2019

Senior Class Advisor Bids Farewell to Seniors

Dear Seniors,

It seems like only yesterday that I was walking around the halls of Neshaminy High School to the sound of the incoming freshmen flipping water bottles... We have all come such a long way together since then!

I would like to start by congratulating you for all the hard work and effort you have put forth during your time here. It has been an extremely rewarding experience to watch you develop and grow into confident, intelligent, non-bottle flipping, young adults.

When I think of the past four years, there are so many positive encounters that come to mind. As a whole, we set records for participation in school events, setting the bar high for classes to follow. Your officers helped to bring about the return of a Homecoming Dance, and introduced many new fundraising ideas. Every event at Neshaminy has introduced me to new students. Hopefully, they introduced all of you to new people as well. Some of us may have only met this year, but because of our shared interests, friendships quickly developed. I hope you value and protect these friendships always. As you move on to the next phase of your promising life, try to remember the experiences in your time here that helped to shape who you have become. Use these memories to guide you. Let them help you create new experiences that will allow you and those around you to flourish. I am certain you are so excited to leave the safe and comfortable place where everyone knows who you are; to become a Neshaminy Alum! But as the days become numbered, take advantage of the last opportunities you have to make great memories here and with each other. Jot them down in your yearbook or save a post online, as the future moves quickly and the past can fade. You will someday want to look back and cherish these times. You are now standing at the brink of graduation, ready to make your way in the world. Hold your heads high. You have made all of us proud. High School is a once in a lifetime experience and it was an honor sharing yours with you. Congratulations Neshaminy High School Class of 2019!

With Love,
Ms. Romano

Senior Class President Bids Farewell to Seniors

I would like to begin my final farewell address by saying I'm very honored to be asked to do this. It's crazy to believe that our time to graduate is NOW. I remember when all of us young freshmen walked into this big school, not knowing nearly the amount of people we do now that filled the halls and made us look like little kids; From being freshmen, to now young adults heading into the real world. What seemed impossible, is now reality.

The teachers got us prepared for the next chapters in our lives and whatever you do with that, I hope you have a great impact on the world. We've made so many memories, from Friday Night Football games at the Ridge, to the amazing Gym Night experiences, our underclassmen formals, our Junior and Senior Proms, and how could I forget.... Junior Class Trip! To all of our seniors who were musically talented. From the musical, to drama productions, and all the seasonal concerts, you guys were absolutely amazing. The Marching Band, and all of their long practice leading up to their big competitions, you guys were a treat to watch. All our artistic seniors, you guys were beyond creative and it was awesome seeing the art shows and the amazing gym night murals all four years. Your talents are astonishing. It's been one amazing ride and I wouldn't change one thing about it.

Neshaminy High School has a huge impact on my heart and I hope you all feel the same. To think I was going to Archbishop Wood two weeks before high school started, and turning around and going back to Neshaminy was the best decision of my life. The friends I've made here are the friendships that will last for my lifetime. I can't thank you all enough for this amazing experience. The teachers that worked so hard to make sure we were ready for this time. To Mr. Trickle I would like to thank you for putting up with our craziness and keep us all on the right path to graduate. I also can't write a final farewell address without thanking my other officers, Julie, Deanna, Bobby, and Kayla, who helped and worked so hard to make sure all these events were fun and memorable. To end, I wish you all nothing but the best of luck, wherever life takes you and I thank you for being truly amazing and making going to school something I look forward to! Class President OUT!

Sincerely,
Joey Nolen

ADVICE FROM TEACHERS TO STUDENTS

"Embrace your curiosity. Study something that makes you uncomfortable. Search for options that are not directly in front of you. And, never be afraid to fail – for it is in the most challenging and unpredictable situations that we find what we truly care about – who we truly are in life." - Mrs. Marozsan

"It is NEVER too late for advice." - Mr. Stoner

"As you begin the next chapter of your lives, always remember to stay true to yourselves. Don't be afraid to try new things and get out of your comfort zones. Sometimes the greatest life experiences happen when you take a chance on something that seems unfamiliar or unknown. Always trust your gut instinct, it will help you make some of the most difficult life decisions". - Mrs. Coe

"Explore the world. Be kind to others (even to your enemies). Call your loved ones! Embrace forgiveness. And lastly, before posting on social media think to yourself, "Would I care if my Grandmom saw this?!" - Ms. Savage

"Stay at home. Let your parents' pay for everything." - Mr. Nichols

"Embark on many journeys, but never forget where home is" - Mrs. May

"You can learn something from everyone that crosses your path, no matter their title. Make a plan and work... nothing will be handed to you, but there is much to be learned through the value of hard work. Go out into the world and amount to something. Set your own value on life; set your own standards and goals." - Mrs. Kelley

"You don't have to accomplish anything at your parents pace. Go at your own pace, but at least have one. It's better to make your mistakes now while you're young. It's way cheaper. Always temper peer pressure with that voice inside yourself and give that voice two votes. Enjoy life now and always. You'll regret it if you don't." - Dr. Lichtner

"My advice to young people today would be to put your phones down and be conscious! Be present and enjoy who you are with and what you are doing in that moment! Be humble, be kind, and live with an attitude of gratitude! Try to make a difference every day!" -faculty member
